

BENJAMIN LACHAPELLE'S

ROAM-ANTS

Appreciating autism means celebrating autistic passions and talents! In April 2025, the COE-ASD will distribute Benjamin Lachapelle's generous donation of his latest book, Roam-ants, to all of our Lester B. Pearson schools to make autistic voices heard during Autism Appreciation Month!.

ROAM-ANTS

Benjamin Lachapelle

Roam-ants joyfully invites readers to consider a more inclusive perspective and embrace the journey through which a happy, fulfilling, and a rich life could be achieved. After all, "All you need is love and ROAM-ANTS". In this book, a young anteater learns how to build a loving, happy, and a meaningful life with the help of special little ants called roam-ants.

About the author:

Benjamin Lachapelle, who calls himself an "Animal Knower," is an autistic artist and author-illustrator of children's books from the Laurentians of Quebec, Canada. Benjamin is passionate about all animals and has been since he was a young child. He draws, paints, sculpts, illustrates and writes stories about animals from his unique perspective.

Benjamin's work has been commissioned by McGill University, Inspirations Newspaper, English Montreal School Board, Fondation Autisme de Laurentides and many other community organizations. He was a featured artist at the 2019 and 2021 Autism Festival and has exhibited his paintings and sculptures in numerous events.
